Lolita Edith Mayer was born in Ogden Utah. At a young age her family moved to Oakland, CA. Lola began expressing her love for art the first moment she held a pencil. Lola and her two younger sisters Irene and Ruth sat for hours after school and on weekends drawing. Lola loved designing and sewing clothing. She won a scholarship to Madame Lucille's School of Design where she refined her dress designing talent. Lola learned the practical and whimsical sides of fashion. Not only were the dress lines important but also incorporating the practical side of zippers and buttons. Lola's world was influenced by Art Deco. Her designs reflect that influence with fashions of soft flowing lines and those of a sculptured tailored look. Lola's love of art continued throughout her life.

Like this some of backgrounds I do not care for

What a fun book! Large pages and filled with great designs. Already purchased one and gave as a Christmas gift and since found out other friends of mine like adult coloring books and they want one as well. Looks like I'll be ordering some more.

I really enjoyed the book almost finished it. It helps that I personally knew the lady when I was in high school. she would have loved what the girls did

Love the style Lola created. Lovely designs to color if you desire. Can even be framed after and framed for hanging.

What beautiful fashions from back in the day! The story behind the book is wonderful.

I really didn't like this book. Not my style at all. Sorry

Ok, so I am one of the authors. Still, the artwork is beautiful and actually drawn in the 1930s by a talented artist who also happens to be my mother. My sister, Mary, added backgrounds to give you more to color.

For those who like the 1930's fashions and an art deco type design, this is a great coloring book.
