“After reading this book, your kids will NEVER want to come inside ever again. Not only does Colleen Kessler capture the heart of your children with her child-centered language, she will also encourage them to think outside the box, stretch their thinking and dig into their inner curiosities through her captivating science-based activities.”
Dayna Abraham, author of The Superkids Activity Guide to Conquering Every Day and Sensory Processing 101, founder of Lemon Lime Adventures
“This is such an engaging book. Full of interesting experiments and projects, it takes your child’s natural curiosity for the bugs in their backyard and inspires them to wonder, explore and discover so much about the world.”
Cathy James, author of The Garden Classroom, founder of NurtureStore
“Telling your kids to go outside and play just got a heck of a lot more educational. Colleen Kessler is an expert educator who understands how to make outside activities spark interest in science without stripping away the fun.”
Allison McDonald, B.Ed, author of Raising A Rock-Star Reader, founder of No Time for Flashcards
“Nature is the world’s greatest classroom, and this book makes it easy to explore and totally fun. Perfect for parents and teachers alike!”
Anne Carey, author and founding engineer of Left Brain Craft Brain

Lots of good ideas to foster a love of nature and the outdoors. Got some worms at Walmart and a styrofoam cooler at the Dollar Store. Kids loved watching, holding, and feeding vegetable scraps to the worms. After a few weeks, we even were able to count and notice the "babies". Fun activities for the kids.

great book, I teach in a nature center and I am always looking for realistic activities for young children and this is one of the best

My 6-year old son is obsessed with this book! It will be the thing that keeps us going this Summer for sure! We have been fun exploring the many great projects included. It is keeping my kids interested in the outdoors this Spring and Summer and I can't complain about that!

My kids can't go a day without thumbing through the book to learn more and more about the critters they are finding outside. When we found a toad, my 4 year old proudly proclaimed she knew exactly what to do because her book showed her! This book will not disappoint!

Terrific book for children and parents to get them out doors and active, and away from any indoor technology ! I bought one for my grandson and one for my niece and their parents! Very creative and fun!

great gift - prompt shipping

Love, love, love this book! Great ideas to keep kids entertained while they learn. Excellent book!

A gift for grandson. with a little adult supervision should provide a lot of outdoor fun.....
