Customer Reviews

More than a string of fact and dates, the Essential Lives series reveals the influences that shaped each individual and how, in turn, each individual shaped American history. Complemented by archival photos and clear narration, these biographies begin with a snapshot in time to pique interest before continuing along with chronological coverage. Estée Lauder follows a young Josephine Esther Mentzer, the daughter of Jewish immigrants, who combined her personal interest in beauty care with skin cream she learned to make in her chemist uncle's lab. After changing her name to Estée Lauder, the hardworking and determined entrepreneur created a marketing style that turned her home business into a global corporation. This series does an excellent job of depicting each individual as a nuanced human rather than an icon. Grades 7-10. --Angela Leeper

I worked for Estee Lauder years ago and found the book to be accurate. Enjoyed reading it. Barry
